Delbert Jerome

Delbert Jerome was considered by most to be Arizona's "Father of Guidance". He held the position of Supervisor of Guidance Services in the Arizona State Department of Vocational Education.

An Arizona Counselor Conference was held at the Smokehouse in Phoenix (4701 N 16th Street) on Friday, January 26, 1962 and was sponsored by the Guidance Services Division of the State Department of Vocational Education. The speaker was Gilbert Wrenn, then of the University of Minnesota.

DR. C. GILBERT WRENN

Dr. C. Gilbert Wrenn, (April 2, 1902 -December 28, 2001) a pioneer leader in education psychology and humanistic counseling breathed his last. He was the founder and first editor of the Journal of Counseling Psychology, and had been lecturer at 22 universities and traveled to every continent of the world.

Gilbert Wrenn spent most of his career at the University of Minnesota but later joined the faculty of Arizona State University. Anyone who knew Gilbert and his dear wife

Kathleen and the special relationship the two enjoyed easily understood why the American Counseling Association proudly awards the Gilbert and Kathleen Wrenn Humanitarian and Caring Person Award each year. Their son Robert was director of the counseling center at the University of Arizona for many years.

Here are several personal remembrances of Gilbert and Kathleen. Once, while flying to an ACA convention I sat behind an older couple I recognized as the Wrenns. Across the aisle from the Wrenns was the mother of a young child who was particularly fussy throughout the flight. When the plane landed I watched Gilbert, rather than express his displeasure, he got up and complimented the woman on her patience under such difficult circumstances.

Several years later I had the honor of videotaping a session that Tom Sweeney conducted with Gilbert and Kathleen at Northern Arizona University when Tom was collecting early childhood memories. First, one couldn't help but notice the adoring and respectful way the Wrenns communicated with each other even though each was about ninety years of age. Secondly, Gilbert's earliest childhood memory was of growing up in Florida on a lot that abutted an alligator infested swamp. Gilbert told of regularly letting his dog out several times a day but one day the dog didn't return. Tears streamed down his eyes as he recalled this sad incident that occurred almost nine decades earlier!

Gibson and Mitchell (2003) wrote that Gilbert Wrenn's classic contribution of the 1960's, The Counselor in a Changing World, examined the counselor's role in a society with changing ideas about human behavior and changing schools. Wrenn (1962) noted the growing complexity of the counselor's task:

It is not enough for the counselor to understand youth in isolation, as it were. More than ever before, the counselor must understand not only the student, but himself and his adult contemporaries as they attempt to adjust to a rapidly changing technology and the world order. (p.8)

The peg? Well, the sixties was still the machine age and counselors were still doing vocational testing. The General Aptitude Test Battery or GATB involved many tests including one with a peg board that was a test of manual dexterity. The more rapidly a student could pick up a peg and turn it upside down and place it back in the hole from whence it came, the higher the dexterity score. Another test involved rivets and washers. The student would pick up a rivet, put a washer on the rivet, and place the assembled product back in a hole – a test of finger dexterity. This was important – only if you wanted a job in manufacturing!

An aside from John Bloom, in 2007 the Indiana Counseling Association was part of a coalition which helped block the establishment of a ridiculous Restricted Test List by state psychologists who felt that counselors were ill-prepared to give all kinds of psychological tests, including the GATB (which probably hasn't been used in over thirty years!)

Gibson and Mitchell (2003) wrote “Six years later (September 1964), the impact of the [NDEA] act could be detected in announcements from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which pointed out that the act had, in that short period of time, achieved the following:

Made grants to states of approximately $30 million, thereby helping bring the number of full-time high school counselors from 12,000 (one for every 960 students) in 1958 to 30,000 (one for every 510 students) in 1964.

Through the end of the 1964-1965 academic year, supported 480 institutes [including several at Arizona State University] designed to improve counseling capabilities, which were attended by more than 15,700 secondary school counselors and teachers preparing to become counselors

From 1959 to 1964, made it possible for 109 million scholastic aptitude and achievement tests to be given to public secondary school students and over 3 million to private secondary school students

Helped 600,000 students obtain or continue their college education with federal loans

Trained 42,000 skilled technicians to meet critical manpower needs

Granted 8,500 graduate fellowships, a first step toward meeting the need for many more college teachers”

The spring convention was held at the Francisco Grande in Casa Grande, AZ on February 12 and 13. Dr. Arthur Hitchcock of APGA was the speaker.

The Vietnam War (also known as the Second Indochina War, the American War in Vietnam and the Vietnam Conflict) occurred from 1959 to April 30, 1975. The war successfully reunified the Vietnamese under a communist government which consisted of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV or North Vietnam) and the indigenous National Front for the Liberation of South Vietnam, (also known the Việt Cộng or VC, or derogatively as Charlie). To a degree, the war may be viewed as a Cold War conflict between the U.S., its allies, and the Republic of Vietnam on one side, and the Soviet Union, its allies, the People's Republic of China, and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam on the other. Others, however, viewed the conflict as a civil war between communist and non-communist Vietnamese factions.<sup>[3]</sup>

The U.S. deployed large numbers of troops to South Vietnam between the end of the First Indochina War in 1954, and 1973. Some U.S. allies also contributed forces. U.S. military advisers first became involved in Vietnam in 1950, assisting French colonial forces. In 1956, these advisers assumed full responsibility for training the Army of the Republic of Vietnam. President John F. Kennedy increased America's troop numbers from 500 to 16,000. Large numbers of combat troops were dispatched by President Lyndon Johnson beginning in 1965. Almost all U.S. military personnel departed after the Paris Peace Accords of 1973. The last American troops left the country on April 30, 1975.<sup>[4]</sup> Wikipedia

A fall workshop was held on October 29 and 30, 1965 and the HiWay House on East Van Buren in Phoenix. The theme was “Communications”. Dr. Bertram Van Easley addressed that topic.

Phoenix, Arizona
Banquet Room

PROGRAM: Friday - October 29, 1965
6:30 - 7:30 P.M. - Registration and Social Hour
7:30 - 8:00 P.M. - Dinner - $2.95 - (Catholic Dispensation)

Menu - Roast Young Turkey, Dressing, Cranberry Sauce
Mixed Green with Tomato Wedge
Oven Brownd Potatoes
Vegetable du Jour
Hot Rolls and Butter
Fruit Squares
Coffee - Tea - Milk

8:00 - 9:30 P.M. - Program
Dr. Bertram Van Easley - "Communications Specialist"
Topic - Perception and Misperception

Dispensation: An act whereby in a particular case a lawful superior grants relaxation from an existing law. So this probably meant that Catholics who at this time were not supposed to eat meat on Fridays, could partake of this turkey dinner.

I'm curious as to just who granted the dispensation. Was that the responsibility of the workshop planner? Was that something automatically done by the host hotel? Did we have 'a lawful superior' in the organization who could do such things? This is the first time in my 62 years that I've ever since this language appear in a convention program!

Paul Fitzgerald, President of ASCA, was the speaker at the central region meeting on January 13, 1966 and the southern region meeting on January 14 at the Tidelands Motor Inn in Tucson.

This is the first mention of AzPGA's involvement with any of the APGA divisions. The following year it is noted that for the first time there is mention of two state divisions and their respective presidents, Ilene Reilly of AzSCA and Gordon Ellis of AzACES.

ROBERT LEE PLUNKETT

THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER:

Since my first report dealt primarily with national concerns, it seems appropriate at this time to concentrate on matters pertaining to Arizona. My "hat is off" to our Executive Council, which is composed of the elected Arizona-PGA officers, the district chairmen, the committee chairmen and coordinators, and the divisional representatives.

Having served in various capacities on the Executive Council virtually every year since 1953, I have never seen a harder-working, a more harmonious, or a more dedicated group than we have this year. Let me give a few examples to substantiate my claim that we have an unsurpassed degree of professional interest and dedication this year. On May 26-27, 1967, at the Western Village in Phoenix, we held the longest, continuous Executive meeting in the history of our state organization. Disregarding personal expenses, our Executive Committee members, who traveled from all areas of Arizona -- Flagstaff, Yuma, Tucson, Casa Grande, Safford, Phoenix-- contributed generously during the two-day meeting. The Western Village was the scene of another lengthy Executive Meeting on September 9. Again, the enthusiasm was great, and the attendance was excellent.

On October 7, at Arizona State University, we witnessed one of the most dynamic and pleasing Arizona-PGA workshops to date. The credit goes to the thirty-three dedicated delegates who attended this day-long workshop. Again, every part of the state was well represented -- Kingman, Winslow, Flagstaff, Yuma, Nogales, Tucson, Casa Grande, Safford, Mesa, Tempe, and Phoenix. Ten different committees held official meetings, and each committee made a complete report during our second general meeting. Everyone present contributed to this worthwhile workshop, and a high degree of professional interest was manifested.

The list of examples of professional interest and dedication would not be complete without mentioning the excellent response we have had from our Divisional Representatives. During the October workshop at Arizona State University, the Executive Council selected a state representative from each national division in Arizona, with the exception of SPATE, to represent his division on the Executive Committee. Each selected Divisional Representative gladly accepted the challenge, and, furthermore, all seven of these dedicated delegates attended our Executive Committee meeting and our Fall Guidance Program during the AEA Convention. In addition to this manifestation of professional loyalty and support, these same Divisional Representatives, in a relatively short period of time, have made considerable progress toward the formation of state divisions in Arizona. DAVID VANDER KRAATS, representing NECA, and DR. DAVID LLOYD, representing ASCA, have completed practically all of the necessary steps in the formation process.

I also have considerable praise for our hard-working and faithful District Chairmen. Needing considerable help as the president of the state association, I refused to surrender the five district chairmen, who were elected just prior to the adoption of our new By-Laws. We are really indebted to this valuable quintet, particularly for their present efforts in establishing chapters in the five districts of Arizona. As a result of their efforts, good news will be forthcoming soon.

It would be an inexcusable injustice on my part not to continue with this list of the highly dedicated members of our Executive Council who are conscientiously devoting their time and energy in the promotion of the guidance profession in

MEMO TO: Members and Professional Colleagues
FROM: Arizona Personnel and Guidance Association
RE: Annual Spring Conference - 1968

"DESIGNING COUNSELING FOR THE FUTURE" will be the theme of this year's conference. The PIONEER INTERNATIONAL HOTEL, Tucson, March 8 and 9, will be the place and time. Mark your calendars now and request the necessary released time so you won't miss our most important professional meeting of the year.

The opening session is planned for 1:00 p.m. Friday, March 8. Registration will open at 11:00 a.m. Registration materials will be sent to you in about three weeks. If you register early you will be assured of obtaining sleeping accommodations in the Pioneer International Hotel. This means no parking or transportation headaches for you.

DR. NEVITT SANFORD, DIRECTOR OF THE INSTITUTE FOR STUDY OF HUMAN RELATIONS, Stanford University, will be our featured speaker. Many programs of interest to all APGA members are planned for Friday afternoon and Saturday morning.

The Total Concept

The TOTAL CONCEPT represents a philosophy of understanding and motivation. The topic to be explored is the counselor's role in the total professional community of "helping services". The program has been set up into block areas. Each block will have the task of providing provocative and stimulating exploration of counseling in specific areas. The final goal will be to give some realistic and useful directions that counselors might be challenged to take in the ever expanding milieu of professional workers whose tasks are to guide and assist an individual in the search for identity and self actualization.

If unity and understanding are our goals, then communication and co-operation must be our tools as we search for new ways to fulfill our professional commitments to ourselves and to others.

"The reward of a thing well done is to have done it." Emerson

DR. ROLLO MAY

The leading American existential analyst. A fellow and faculty member of the William Alanson White Institute and professor of clinical psychology at New York University. Author of Man's Search for Himself and Existential Psychology.

AzPGA PRESIDENT

FRED SUGHRUE

It's Convention time again! Our annual meeting gives us the opportunity to exchange ideas and share experiences. All of us share a mutual interest and a common goal—the continued growth and improvement of guidance and counseling. Our aim, this year, is to take a few steps closer to this goal. By everyone becoming personally involved we will be able to make this the best Arizona PGA effort yet.

CONVENTION CO-ORDINATOR

DAVID VANDERKRAATS

The convention this year was built around a program of total participation. The two days will be filled with exciting events and interesting people. In order to give yourself an opportunity to see and do everything you want, it is most advisable to pre-register and pre-plan. By filling each minute of both days with something of importance, the best use of that short time can be utilized.

The program is divided into a number of "block" areas. You might want to follow one block all five sessions, or you might want to mix up the various sessions. However, those that do focus on a given area will be most able to grasp the continuity of the learning situation.

WHAT'S NEW IN EQUIPMENT, TOOLS, AND READING MATERIALS?

Each year industry and science are developing new and better tools for use in counseling and guidance. All too often we are not in a position to hear about them. As a result, are possibly held back by the lack of it. Therefore, one of the primary objectives of this year's convention is to bring these advances to you by developing a quality exhibition and lending special emphasis and time to alleviate this area of need.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Sidney Jourard

Dr. Sidney Jourard, Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida has written THE TRANSPARENT SELF, PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT, AND DISCLOSING MAN TO HIMSELF. Through the principle of self-disclosure, he has been pioneering a view of what psychological health might be. He advocates that knowledge about self increases personal freedom and power to live meaningfully.

A<sub>2</sub>PGA PRESIDENT

Byron E. McKinnon

May I take this opportunity to state categorically that this convention promises to be one of our very best and that you and I will be hard-pressed to find a more profitable way to spend our time. I hope to see, meet, and greet all who are genuinely concerned with moving this great profession forward.

Dr. Lester Snyder

The convention this year was aimed at total involvement. The two days will provide an opportunity for personal encounter and significant dialogue. Your participation in the demonstration and discussion sessions, banquet, and luncheon will make this the best Arizona PGA effort yet.
